

COASTAL DISCOVERY MUSEUM

Experience The Lowcountry Up Close

Gullah Heritage

The Coastal Discovery Museum would like to invite you to participate in the 2019 Gullah Heritage Teacher Workshop.

Gullah is the unique West African based traditions, customs, beliefs, art forms, and family life brought to South Carolina in the late 17th century by enslaved West Africans. Gullah culture has survived centuries of slavery and more than a century of free lifestyle.

Please join us at the Coastal Discovery Museum on February 6, 2019 from 8:30am-2:30pm for the Gullah Heritage Teacher Workshop. Participating teachers will be introduced to the Gullah culture and history by Emory Campbell, a native islander and Gullah community leader. Teachers will then travel through native island neighborhoods on the Gullah Heritage Trail Tour and hear first-hand stories, tales, and historical data of the customs and traditions of Gullah life. Michael Smalls, experienced sweetgrass basket sewer, will then lead teachers through a sweetgrass basket making demonstration. Teachers will make a small basket starter to take back to the classroom. Resources and lesson plans that connect local history with mainstream American history will also be provided for teachers. Content will focus on social studies standards.

We hope you decide to participate in this fun and educational experience! Thanks to Bargain Box there is no fee for this workshop. Space is limited so please sign up as soon as possible.
